SAC Assails Movie 'Slurs'

Air Force officers conducting briefings for the Strategic Air Command have expressed concern here over films and stories derogatory to the armed forces.

Referring specifically to the movie "Dr. Strangelove," they ruled out any possibility of the fictional nuclear attack on the Soviet Union the film depicts.

Col. Thomas P. Coleman, deputy director of information for SAC, stated the Air Force was "very concerned" about the motives of some of the authors and film producers "distorting the image" of the military forces.
